Yarmouth County Group looking for a Few Good Men

An organizing committee has been formed and the recruiting process has commenced. The success of the 100+ Women Who Care in Yarmouth County has inspired the formation of a men's chapter. The "100 Guys Who Share of Yarmouth County" will hold their first quarterly meeting on July --th at the Mariners Centre. The men's group will basically be a carbon copy of their female counterparts. Media spokesperson Jeff Little says they are very impressed with the model that the 100+ Women follow and there was no need for change. The men have scheduled their quarterly meetings so that combined with the women's initiative there will be good news in the community every six weeks throughout the entire year. "We are confident that we will be able to surpass the 100 mark for membership" says Little, adding that they have received enthusiastic support from the women. "The intent is to compliment what the women are doing" says Little, noting that there is no shortage of good causes throughout the entire county who could benefit from a cash donation. Anyone wishing to join the group or get further information can visit their website at 100guysyarmouth.com or on Facebook at 100 Guys Who Share.
